FACULTY OF ARTS & SOCIAL SCIENCES

DEPARTMENT OF PAKISTAN STUDIES

OVERVIEW

The grant status of Degree Awarding Institution to Lahore College for Women on 10th August, 1999 was a milestone in its history. Soon after that Political Science department was privilege as the 1st department to initiate a new two year Master program in Pakistan Studies in September 1999 and 1st batch of 30 students passed out in 2001. BS 4 year degree program was started in the year 2005.

This program was started with the aim to provide quality education and empower women through useful employment to participate in the political and socio economic development of Pakistan. All the faculty members of political science department worked very hard in the process of establishment and strengthening of discipline of Pakistan Studies at Undergraduate and Master level. Two faculty members with M.sc degree in Pakistan Studies (one from Quaid-e-Azam University, Islamabad and other M.A Pakistan Studies from LCWU) were inducted and the process of strengthening the program as a part of Political Science department continued.

The students of Pakistan Studies BS program take active part in voluntary services, Internship programs and writing research reports helps in raising awareness development and capacity building among the students.

Teaching of this subject at master level BS 4-year degree program and compulsory course for all students for inter to undergraduate level enhance the importance of this subject. Keeping in view the overburden of Political Science Department for catering three full fledge subject the administration took the decision to create Pakistan Studies as an independent department in 2017.

The two year master program has been honored to benefit from the untiring services of the following eminent personalities who served as Heads of Department since 1999: Mrs Shameem Bilal, Mrs. Anees Tauqeer, then Mrs. Arjumand Hussain, Mrs Nayyar Masood, Mrs. Mobina Ali and recently under the incharge ship of Mrs. Sobia Naseer

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

OVER VIEW OF THE DEPARTMENT:

Philosophy i.e.; the love of Wisdom enables the young and rising mind to develop a profound insight towards intellectual thinking and contemplation. The inculcation of logical methodologies in one's personality opens new horizons and helps out not only in grasping the conceptual phenomena of other subjects but also in professional and practical life. This was the paraphernalia in the perspective of which the Department of Philosophy was shaped as one of the oldest departments of LCWU.

The courses have been designed in keeping the same in mind to develop the multi-dimensional needs of students at Intermediate and Degree levels. The courses of philosophy play a pivotal role as a minor subject in four-years Degree program relating different Major disciplines.

PROGRAMMES OF STUDIES OFFERED

Philosophy is offered at intermediate level and as Minor discipline .

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Philosophy pays off psychologically, morally, intellectually and financially. The abstract reasoning skills that are gained by studying Philosophy are more and more valuable in today's high-tech, information-based society. To learn to think, analyze and communicate ideas clearly is applicable to work-life. Certain general intellectual skills and traits are indeed essential, if one wants to become a marketable employment prospect; as well as a well-educated, articulate and thoughtful person; which no doubt Philosophy produces.

The focused objectives of the philosophy department are:

- To develop the abilities of critical and analytical thinking
- To broaden the vision and insight by introducing new dimensions and horizons of thoughts
- To fulfill the instinctive as well as intellectual needs of the individual through freedom of expression.
- To give a detailed perspective of Islamic philosophical thought in order to present the true picture of religion.

OUTCOME:

Inculcating analytical skills in the students to broaden their vision in scholarly perspective. Developing rational and logical decision making based upon patience and tolerance.

FACULTY OF ARTS & SOCIAL SCIENCES

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

OVERVIEW

The inception of the Political Science Department, LCWU can be traced back to the pre-partition period when Miss Dooha single-handedly imparted instructions in the subjects of Civics and Indian History. Later Mrs. Maqbool Hassan joined as the first lecturer in Political Science. By this time the college had shifted to its present building. The year 1979 is marked as a millstone when MA in Political Science was introduced in the Lahore College for Women, Lahore and a full-fledged department with exclusive responsibilities was established.

The Department of Political Science pioneered Masters' Degree programs in Pakistan Studies and International Relations in 1999 and 2005 respectively in Lahore. Afterward, in 2005, Four Year BS Programs in Political Science, International Relations and Pakistan Studies were also commenced. Ph.D. in 2006, MS in 2010 programs in Political Science were also initiated. Currently, these programs are being successfully conducted by the department.

The Department owes profound gratitude to prominent faculty members, Mrs. Parveen Hassan, Miss Shamim Iqbal Butt, Mrs. Tallat Naseem, Miss Asma Rasheed, Miss Sarwat, Miss Tahira Bashir, Mrs. Shamsi Hassan, Mrs. Nasreen Javeed, Miss. Shaista Wyne, Mrs. Irshad Tanveer Mrs. Humaira Shakeel, Mrs. Asma Tahir, Mrs. Rehana Mansoor, who scholarly and passionately contributed towards the progress of the department.

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

To attain the highest degree of academic excellence by employing modern techniques of research for making the students' future prospects more lucrative and prestigious. The main focus is on: Political Development and Social Change, Political Theory, Political Economy, Nuclear Power, Politics of Interstate Relations, Foreign Policies of Major Powers, International Humanitarian Law, Human Rights, Good Governance, and Human Resource Development.

FACULTY OF ARTS & SOCIAL SCIENCES

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS

OVERVIEW OF THE DEPARTMENT:

The subject of statistics is a mathematical science that is not only multidisciplinary, it is also multi-dimensional as it is widely put to use in almost all physical and applied sciences.

In today's world we are faced with situations every day where statistics can be applied. Statistics benefits all of us because we are able to predict the future based on data we have previously gathered. Being able to predict the future it not only changes our life style but also helps us to be more efficient and effective. Statistics is used all over the world. It can be applied in almost any situation and can always help. They are used in explaining group behavior of organisms, marketing research, Chemistry, Biological Sciences and the list goes on and on.

Statistics was introduced as a subject in 1962, with the first class comprising 3 students only, classes in the subject at bachelor level commenced in 1964 with only 11 students. The number of students opting to study statistics at both intermediate and bachelor level has increased significantly over the years on account of its wide application in various fields.

The subject of statistics is a mathematical science that is not only multidisciplinary, it is also multi-dimensional as it is widely put to use in almost all physical and applied sciences. Therefore, the subject has become a natural choice of students as it provides them with the exposure essentially needed in different fields of study, thus adequately preparing them for the job market. The study of subject is career oriented and crucial to planning of social development. The courses offered at Statistics department are aimed at producing highly educated researchers motivated to contribute in the economic and social development of Pakistan.

Lectures by eminent statisticians are regularly arranged for BS students. These lectures assist them in deciding topic for their final year project/thesis.

The following heads of the Statistics Department have contributed towards the development of a well established Statistics department at LCWU:

- Mrs. ZubaidaShami
